

Clear To Send

Media Kit

2017

A podcast by Wi-Fi professionals, for Wi-Fi professionals.

Clear To Send is a podcast about Wi-Fi network engineering where we educate professionals on Wi-Fi technology, talk about design tips, troubleshooting, interviews, and the tools.

The show launched in August 2015 by Rowell Dionicio. The goal is to contribute back to the Wi-Fi community by providing a valuable and resourceful podcast.

The name Clear To Send comes from the 802.11 standard. It's part of how a station accesses the Wi-Fi medium.

Sponsorship packages start at $100, with individual sponsorships from $50

Why Clear To Send Podcast?

The Clear To Send podcast influences Wi-Fi professionals to become engaged, educated, and informed in the workplace. The focus is to improve one's career in making business decisions, creating quality Wi-Fi designs, and selecting optimal configurations for an overall improved Wi-Fi experience for the end users.

The Hosts

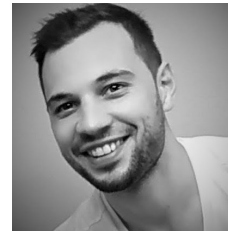

Rowell Dionicio, CWNE #210

Rowell is the founder of Packet6, providing professional services in the Bay Area specializing in Wi-Fi network and mobility planning, design and implementation.

Rowell has worked various roles in Information Technology from help desk, systems administration, management, and network engineering.

Rowell specializes in Wi-Fi network design, configuration, and optimization. He has done work with small to medium businesses, enterprise networks, and higher education.

François Vergès, CWNE #180

François grew up in France where he studied in one of the top computer engineer school specializing in Network and Telecommunication.

François moved to Canada at the end of his studies and started to work as a Network Engineer. He quickly found a passion for Wi-Fi networks leading him to study the technology as well as following the current market.

He founded SemFio Networks with the idea of helping businesses getting the best out of their Wi-Fi network.

What Our Listeners Are Saying

“This is the podcast I have been looking for on the wireless topic. The format is great its not too long its not too short, the expertise level of the guests and the host is excellent.”

—JasNH1846, iTunes Feb 8 2016

“Packed with real world product info, interviews with important players in the WiFi world and practical knowledge, CTS has earned a top seat in my podcast queue. With a consistent release schedule, solid production quality and a focus on providing knowledge over chit-chat with others, I consistently learn something from Rowell's podcast.”

— therealswy, iTunes Feb 7 2016

“Rowell knows wi-fi. I've been listening as I work my way through CWNA and his knowledge has been very helpful. Thanks!”
